BRAD SMITH AND HIS TEAM AT AVD PROVIDE ALL aspects of AV and home automation, including control for lighting, shading, temperature, security, and alarm. The electronics can be operated remotely with the iPhone, iPad and Android devices, which also provides the ability to monitor the home with cameras and alerts from anywhere. AVD offers integrated systems platforms that meet any type of functionality, any size budget, and all performance levels. With most music and video now streaming off the Internet, and today's WiFi requirements, AVD facilitates a robust network in the home with its in-house experts.

AVD approaches clients with a keen sense of understanding to provide technology that is reliable and easy to use. Brad places the highest priority on customer care, with a concierge approach that enables clients to rely on immediate, personal, and outstanding service to make their life simpler.

AVD provides a complete turnkey operation that includes all low-voltage wiring, design, all components, programming, installation, and 24/7 service for one point of responsibility and accountability.

WHAT MOTIVATES YOU?

Collaboration. A professional team comprised of architect, interior designer, builder and lighting designer, working together for the ultimate goal: an extraordinary home. There is nothing more satisfying than these projects.

WHAT IS YOUR DESIGN PHILOSOPHY?

Utilitarian. Bucky Fuller's Geodesic Dome. We've been fighting complexity for so long, but home technology is finally reaching the stage where it is transparent. I want it to be simple in my house and I want the same for my clients.

WHAT DO YOU COLLECT?

Twentieth-century American prints by John Taylor Arms and the Japanese printmaker Tanaka Ryohei. I buy and sell fine wine. And on a lighter side, I have collected Pez dispensers and glass telephone pole insulators since I was ten years old.
